Offender Mental Health Care Pathway

January 2005

Foreword

The Government is committed to ensuring that individuals who suffer from mental illness have their needs met. This includes people who have come into contact with the criminal justice system, whether this be at the point of arrest, whilst in prison, or when living back in the community after release.

"Changing the Outlook: A Strategy for Developing and Modernising Mental Health Services in Prisons"- December 2001, sets out the future development of prison mental health services so that services more closely match those that would be available in the community.

A substantial investment has been committed between 2003 and 2006 to mental health in-reach services – these are similar to Community Mental Health teams 94 prisons are now in receipt of funding to develop this service. The NHS Plan gave a commitment to have 300 extra staff providing mental health services to prisoners by the end of 2004 – this target has been reached. NHS investment in mental health services for prisoners totalled £10 million in 2003/04 and is set to double to £20 million a year by 2005/06. This is taking place alongside the wider plan to move the commissioning of all healthcare services in public sector prisons to local Primary Care Trusts by 2006.

We are now in a position to make progress on two fundamental aims of mental health care for prisoners. The first is that no-one with acute severe mental illness should be in prison. The second is that prisons should be safe places for people with mental health problems and that suicides should be increasingly prevented.

As a result of the implementation of Changing the outlook, and significant investment from the NHS, demonstrable improvements in the mental health care available to prisoners can now be seen. However, it is clear that contemporary mental health services need to be able to bridge the gap between prison and the wider community i.e. before and after, or 'end to end'.

This care pathway document lays down valuable best practice templates to guide providers and commissioners mental health services for those involved in the criminal justice system. It is based on the best evidence currently available, sourced from both literature and innovative clinical practice.

Introduction

The offender mental health care pathway is intended to guide the practice of people who directly deliver services, and support decision making for those who commission them.

A wide base of evidence was used in the development of the care pathway. Whilst it would not be appropriate to include all of that background data here, providers and commissioners are encouraged to read “Offender mental health – a case for change” which makes clear the level of need for contemporary mental health services prior to, inside, and on release from prison.

The best practice tables that make up most of this document, are intended to act as a broad framework for end to end management of offender’s mental health needs. A framework for practice and commissioning is clearly useful, but should be matched to tools and resources for implementation.

A number of tools have been developed to support the implementation of the care pathway, details of these are included in this document following the best practice tables. Additionally, regional prison mental health leads have been appointed to work in each National Institute for Mental Health in England (NIMHE) development centre, the contact details of these staff, along with other key contacts, are included at the end of this document.

Support and implementation

SUICIDE PREVENTION – ASSESSMENT, CARE IN CUSTODY AND TEAMWORK (ACCT)

The ACCT Approach is short for 'Assessment, Care in Custody and Teamwork'. A case management system aims to identify individual need and offer individualised care and support to prisoners in advance, during and after a crisis. It replaces the current F2052SH risk management system. Integral to the ACCT approach are:

- identifying and training a multi-disciplinary team who will respond quickly to prisoners identified as in crisis and help identify their needs
- putting in place regular support for this Assessor team and clear lines of communication/referral to health care/mental health care
- Identifying case managers (Unit Managers, SOs, POs) and providing them with appropriate skills training.

The contact person is Jo Patton, HM Prison Service, email – jo.patton@hmps.gsi.gov.uk

USER INVOLVEMENT IN PRISON MENTAL HEALTH SERVICE DEVELOPMENT

Work is currently underway to produce and pilot a service user involvement strategy for prison mental health services. It is expected that the pilot will be complete, and the strategy ready for national implementation by April 2005. Key contact is Alison Longwill, Women and Prison Mental Health Programmes Lead for NIMHE West Midlands, email – alison.longwill@nimhe.wmids.nhs.uk

PATIENT AND PUBLIC INVOLVEMENT

As prisoners receive NHS-commissioned services, they will need to have access to the appropriate systems of patient involvement, redress and associated support mechanisms, such as Patient Advice and Liaison Services (PALS) and Independent Complaints Advocacy Services (ICAS). PCT Patient and Public Forums will also need to ensure that health services provided to their local prison population form part of their remit and PCTs will need to look at how to engage prisoners in the wider patient and public involvement agenda. As a start to this work, the joint DH/Prison Service Prison Health Team is leading work with policy leads in the DH and the Prison Service, Commission for Patient and Public Involvement in Health and the Healthcare Commission to explore how these mechanisms can work effectively in the prison environment and ensure that they mirror, as far as is possible, those available to patients in the community. Key contact is Susannah Nisbett, email – susannah.nisbett@dh.gsi.gov.uk

COMMISSIONING

The transfer of commissioning responsibility for all healthcare services to PCTs is already taking place in the development network of 18 PCTs and 33 prisons, and will be completed across the public sector prison estate by April 2006. The tasks for commissioners of mental health services will include developing a depth of knowledge of the needs of prisoners both during and after their imprisonment, applying the whole system approach of the NSF to the prison environment, managing the market to deliver appropriately the full range of primary, secondary and tertiary services, evaluating effectiveness and value and revising the Prison Health Delivery Plan accordingly. Representation of the needs of prisoners in all aspects of the work of Local Implementation Teams is encouraged.

The NIMHE London Regional Development Centre has developed a pilot commissioning programme. The objective is to build up commissioning expertise for mental health and this will include Prisons. The contact person is Jim Symington, Programme Director London Development Centre for Mental Health, email - jim.symington@londondevelopmentcentre.org

B.M.E. (BLACK & MINORITY ETHNIC GROUPS)

It is of key importance that mental health services in prison meet the needs of people from black and minority ethnic groups. Work has begun to produce a prison mental health BME strategy that will be implemented nationally via the NIMHE Regional Development Centres. The contact person is Lynn Emslie, Service Development Manager for NIMHE South West, email – lynn.emslie@mhs.w.nhs.uk

INVOLVEMENT OF THE RDCS

There are currently a number of mental health policy, training and educational initiatives within HMPS and/or associated units, e.g. the Safer Custody Unit, which are in the process of being implemented at various locations and by numerous stakeholders throughout the country. Currently there is not a co-ordinated approach or national framework of priorities for the delivery of these initiatives. It is suggested that RDCs should form 'Regional Prison Mental Health Forums' in order to co-ordinate and monitor these national and regional initiatives. The development of a regional forum, comprising a number of these stakeholders is seen as an efficient and hopefully effective way to assess, plan, resource and manage the implementation of these priorities in the prison establishment within their region. ### MENTAL HEALTH AWARENESS TRAINING

Collaboration between the NHSU and Bournemouth University has led to the development and production of a mental health awareness-training package. The programme is targeted towards meeting the training needs of prison discipline staff, particularly those involved in escort and reception duties. The contact person is Damien Mitchell at the NHSU. damien.mitchell@nhsu.org.uk

RECEPTION SCREENING

Prison Health, in conjunction with the University of Newcastle, has developed new screening arrangements for detecting immediate health needs of prisoners on their first reception into custody. The new triage-based screening procedure consists of an initial short screen by health care staff to identify any immediate risk of significant health need. If a prisoner screens positive for one of four categories: mental health; suicide and self-harm; physical health; substance misuse; a further assessment using evidence based protocols is carried out by an appropriate member of the primary care team. The new arrangements have been successfully piloted and rolled out across the prison estate. ## MANAGEMENT OF SELF HARM

Mental Health Strategies, a long established management consultancy who specialise in working alongside providers of mental health care, were commissioned by Prison Health to develop a self-harm toolkit of relevance to custodial settings. In line with the overarching guidance emerging from the National Institute for Clinical Excellence, the objective of this package is that it be applicable across a range of prison environments by both clinical and non-clinical staff. The main theme being that individual risk should be managed in an appropriate manner with safeguards for protecting prisoners and supporting staff based on robust up to date evidence.

The first draft of the toolkit was reviewed in April 2004, with the production of the final draft being scheduled for the end of June 2004. The final format will include a CD-ROM and hardcopy, with primary contents being awareness, management, interventions, and staff support. Key contact is Steve Stanley, email – solutions@mentalhealthstrategies.co.uk

WING-BASED MENTAL HEALTH LIAISON OFFICER ROLE

Mental health awareness training aims to give all staff a basic understanding of mental health and of mental disorders that are commonly found in a prison context. A longer and more detailed version of training (3 days) is available for staff who wish to play a more active role – equivalent to a 'psychological first aider'. These staff, which may be called 'Mental Health Liaison Officers' are trained and provided with on-going support in order to be able to:

- talk to a prisoner about whom there is concern
- estimate risk and advise on whether to open an ACCT Plan
- facilitate appropriate referral to health care/mental health care
- liaise with health care staff to ensure that residential staff are advised about how best to manage prisoners with mental health problems on the residential unit' liaison

There is no requirement for establishments to create this special role for a minority of their staff. Establishments with a high level of mental health need may prefer to train all their staff to this level. Another option that is open to establishments and individuals is to combine the roles of ACCT Assessors and Mental Health Liaison Officers, as there is a great deal of overlap between their roles and training.
